

Report Summary – 2003

Management of composting facilities constructed under a comprehensive project for creating an environment for stock raising

Regarding composting facilities constructed under a comprehensive project for creating an environment for stock raising, because the purpose of the construction was not recognized sufficiently, and the state of the use was not grasped fully, the effect of the project did not grow adequately. For example, excretion from livestock was piled up out in the open, and the composting facilities were not or hardly used.
